DEBUGGING TRANSACTIONS ACROSS
MULTIPLE PROCESSORS

Abstract of the Disclosure

Debugging of a transaction across multiple processors is facilitated by having debug information follow the transaction from processor to processor. The transaction can be debugged across processors without predefining the transaction path, and without performing a debug registration process between the client controlling the debugging and each processor of the multiple processors.